AUTOMOBILE KILLS HORSE

William P. Weikert Loses Valuable
Animal when Garvin Automobile
Crashes into his Team. Wagon Damaged.

In a driving accident between McKnightstown and Cashtown Wednesday evening caused by the automobile of Howard Garvin, of Buford avenue, running into the team of William P. Weikert, of McKnightstown, the horse of the latter was so badly hurt that it had to be killed soon afterward. No one was hurt but the buggy was badly damaged and the automobile slightly battered.

Mr. and Mrs. Weikert were driving toward Cashtown when the Garvin automobile appeared on the scene. In telling the story Mr. Weikert says:

"I pulled to the side of the road until I got against the bank, and the automobile kept on coming right toward me until it ran right into the horse, knocking him flat to the ground, breaking the shafts and two wheels of the buggy. Then Mr. Garvin pulled to the right side of the road and ran into the paling fence at the tenant house of the John F. Butt farm occupied by Allen Rebert."

As soon as he could get to a telephone Mr. Weikert sent for Dr. Holson who, upon making an investigation, said that the horse would have to be killed. Mr. Weikert expressed his unwillingness to do this but Dr. Holson returned later in the evening to make a still further examination and again said that the animal could not survive and it was therefore put out of its suffering.

The Garvin machine was somewhat damaged but Mr. Garvin with it, Mr. Weikert says the horse was one of the safest in the county. He had owned it for about four years.

NO CHARTER FOR MOOSE

In his opinion regarding the application for a charter for a Moose Club at Chambersburg, Judge Gillan says:

"We have too many social clubs in this county now; too many of them are mere drinking places; the number should be decreased, not increased. No more clubs will be chartered while this court is constituted as it now is where intoxicating liquors are to be dispensed as a means of raising revenue. Now, 27th September, 1916, incorporation refused." Application for charters were pending for Moose clubs or lodges at Mont Alto and Waynesboro, where large lodges had been formed, houses leased and furnished. The decree of Judge Gillan means that neither of these lodges will be given a charter.

GIRL BADLY HURT

It was dark on Monday night when two young ladies returned from Blue Ridge Summit to Highfield along the path frequented by residents of that town and in consequence both of them tumbled into the turntable that lies near the path, one receiving severe injuries and the other escaping unhurt. The young lady who was badly hurt is Miss Goldie Graham, of Highfield. One arm and one leg were broken. The other young lady was Miss Kline, of Frederick, Md. Miss Kline owes her escape to the fact that she fell on top of her more unfortunate companion.

HAD SUN STROKE

Jerry Guise, of Huntingdon township, was a victim of a sun stroke on Monday forenoon when he fell over while cutting off corn at Alonzo Hoffman's. Mr. Guise was working very rapidly when he suddenly fell over and it took Mr. Hoffman about fifteen minutes to bring the stricken man to consciousness by pouring cold water over his head and wrists. We are glad to note that Mr. Guise is not suffering any ill effects from his experience and is at work again.

SHOPMEN LOANED

Employees of the Frick Company's foundry at Waynesboro have been loaned to D. M. Wertz for a few days. VISITOR TOOK MONEY ALONG

Mrs. Charles Stevens, of Railroad Street, Victim of Thief who Spent the Night as Lodger in her Home.

The home of Charles Stevens on Railroad street was this morning robbed of $17.85, supposedly by lodgers who had been staying there for the past few days.

Mrs. Stevens had placed the money in a tobacco bag and had hidden it among some clothing in a bureau drawer in a room occupied by some of the visitors. She felt that the money was perfectly secure.

This morning about five o'clock Mrs. Stevens arose to get breakfast for the people who were staying at her home and after they had eaten the morning meal the men left. Mrs. Stevens then went up stairs to see that everything was all right but she at once discovered the money gone.

Mrs. Stevens told her husband and he started out to search for the men who had stayed in the room and the other lodgers who also had to go through that room on their way downstairs. He found that they had left on the 5.55 train over the Reading.

The man who is thought to have stolen the money is known together with his place of employment and the case has been put into the hands of the State Constabulary.

UGLY WRECK AT THURMONT

Western Maryland Has Freight and Passenger Wreck in which Cars
are Piled up but no One Killed.
The Cause.

A Western Maryland passenger train which left Hagerstown for Baltimore on Wednesday sidwiped an extra west bound freight one mile west of Thurmont. The tracks were so badly obstructed that it was necessary to send several main line trains through Gettysburg.

Engine man H. W. Straw, Baltimore, of the passenger train, had his leg bruised and was shaken up. The passengers were also badly shaken up.

The engine of the passenger train was derailed, but none of the coaches left the tracks. Seven of the freight cars, all heavily loaded, were derailed and piled in a heap. The accident occurred on a reverse curve and grade where there is a siding.

The freight had orders to take the siding, but did not get in far enough and the rear cars were on the main track. When Engineer Straw saw the rear end of the freight he did his best to stop the train, but did not succeed because of the steep grade. He stuck to his post and checked his train to a speed of about 15 miles an hour.

Drs. Wachter and Keefauver, of Thurmont, were hurried to the scene of the wreck.

LAFOLLETTE MEN ADOPT PLATFORM
Wisconsin Republicans Are Bitterly Radical.
ATTACKS THE NEW TARIFF
No Mention is Made of the National Administration Save to Disparage It. LaFollette Hailed as First Progressive.
Madison, Wis., Sept. 29.—What is probably the most radical platform adopted in a generation by a Republican convention was promulgated by Wisconsin Republicans here.
The document is about 4000 words in length and touches with no uncertain hand on a great variety of subjects. It is generally designated as a radically progressive pronouncement.
No mention was made of the national administration save to disparage it.
Senator LaFollette, although far from well, was present for the first time when the resolutions were read. Mention of his name, particularly as the pioneer of the insurgent movement, was invariably the signal for applause.
Features of Platform:
Condemnation of the Payne-Aldrich tariff act.
Physical valuation of railroads and more stringent regulation of them.
Second choice primaries.
Initiative, referendum and recall.
Anti-lobby law.
Graduated income tax.
Home rule in the liquor traffic.
National control of natural resources.
Ad valorem taxation of corporations.
Condemnation of the "pernicious activity" in the recent primary campaign of the brewery corporations, insurance agencies and the binding twine trust.
Employers' liability laws.
Condemnation of the "suppression by special interests in congress of the investigations of the country life commission."
Regulation of working hours of women and children.
Urging the federal government to determine the style of craft best adapted for river use in the light of future improvement of streams.
The platform declares also:
"It is now recognized throughout the country that Robert M. LaFollette was the pioneer in this progressive movement, and although he had behind him years of sound, progressive work, tried and approved in this state, when he entered the United States senate he had neither sympathizers nor following. With courage, ability and determination that has characterized all his public services he adhered to his course, grew into leadership, and now holds a position of undisputed power and influence in the nation."
"The people of Wisconsin believe the results secured promise opportunity for greater achievements and they have, by an unprecedented majority, expressed their faith in his wisdom and statesmanship and approved his reelection to the United States senate."
The Patronage Question.
On patronage the platform reads:
"Wisconsin is to be congratulated upon having representatives in the senate and house who remained true to the people and to the national platform of the party, notwithstanding the efforts to punish them for so doing by withdrawal of federal patronage."
On the tariff it says:
"The Payne-Aldrich tariff is not a compliance with the pledge of the Republican party, in its national platform. The true basis of a protective tariff is the difference between the cost of production at home and abroad, and we hold an increased cost of production due to higher wages and standards of living of American labor should be accompanied by compensatory tariff duties. The present tariff board has no power of investigation and is not required to report to congress. We favor the creation of a non-partisan tariff committee empowered to ascertain the cost of production in this and other countries and required to make frequent reports of the information gained to congress. Upon the information so obtained congress should proceed to revise the different schedules independently of each other, according to true protective tariff principles."
The plank on trusts declares that in a general way the laws against trusts should not be changed "until the people have regained control of government."
Catch 1,500,000 Fish.
Beaufort, N. C., Sept. 29.—A million and a half fat-backs fish were caught off here, and fishermen who came on shore reported that as far as the eye could reach the ocean was red with the fish. The fat-backs, properly called menhaden, are not fit for food, but are dried and manufactured into oils and guano.
Rock Crushes Two Miners to Death.
Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Sept. 29.—Anthony Slavins and Adolph Skinskey were killed and Joseph Bokafog was fatally injured by a fall of top rock in the No. 14 colliery of the Pennsylvania Coal company at Port Griffith, near here.
A pamphlet recently issued by the forest service recognizes three types of forest fires—namely, surface, ground and crown fires. The surface fire burns the surface layer of leaves, dry grass, brush and small trees; the ground fire burns the deep accumulation of vegetable mold, while the crown fires accompany the surface fires and burn the crowns of the trees. The surface fires, which are most common, kill seedlings and young trees, but often do not destroy the larger trees. Ground fires occur only when the leaf mold

$100,000 FOR HOME RULE
This Sum Pledged For Ireland by United Irish League of America.
Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 29.—A pledge to raise $100,000 within two years for the cause of home rule in Ireland was enthusiastically made by the United Irish league delegates of this city.
The pledge was made by the unanimous adoption of the report of the committee on ways and means, which endorsed "the great work done for the amelioration of the Irish people with, in the last year by the Irish parliamentary party."
The report expressed the fullest confidence in the leadership of John E. Redmond, and said that if $100,000 was not enough more money would be raised.
FAIR TO RAILROADS
President Taft's Stand With Regard to Rates.
Washington, Sept. 29.—President Taft will give the railroads a fair deal. He will not attempt to have any increase in freight rates by the carriers declared ineffective by the interstate commerce commission unless there is conclusive proof that such increase is unjust.
That is the substance of what the president told T. J. Nolan, general secretary and treasurer of the International Brotherhood of Steam Shovel and Dredgers.
Mr. Nolan called to tell the president that many railway employees and thousands of men who work for railroads, incidentally as to steam shovel men, wish to see increases in rates so that they can be assured of work.
"The president told me," said Mr. Nolan, "that he could be depended upon to give the railroads a square deal, regardless of the clamor of political influence, and that furthermore he was going to see that they got a square deal."
STOKES' PLURALITY
Popular Vote Gave Him Lead of 736 in Senate Race.
Trenton, N. J., Sept. 29.—With only one district missing throughout the state the vote on the popular choice for United States senator, according to the returns at the state house, shows that Stokes received 35,554; Fowler, 35,818; Murphy, 36,240. This gives Stokes a plurality of 736.

JURY COMMISSIONER SCORED AND JAILED
Was Shadowed During Pennsylvania Capitol Trial.
Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 29.—Jury Commissioner Aaron D. Klugh, convicted last June and refused a new trial on two charges of embezzlement in trying to influence members of the grand jury, was sentenced to seven months in prison and $200 fine by President Judge Kunkel, who delivered a scathing lecture on his offense.
Efforts were made to obtain mercy for Klugh, who is the Democratic commissioner, but were of no avail by District Attorney John Fox Weiss, who in the course of his statement to the court said that Klugh was one of the men who had been shadowed by Pinkerton detectives during a recent capitol trial.
Judge Kunkel told Klugh that his offense was all the more heinous because he had been elected as a commissioner to draw jurors and to safeguard the jury wheel and drawings. He denounced the offense and said that he was glad to know that efforts had been made to halt it.
FEAR BALLOONIST DROWNED
Aeronaut Who Dropped in Parachute Can't Be Found.
Houghton, Mich., Sept. 29.—It is feared that Homer Hazard, of Lansing, Mich., an aeronaut, was drowned in Portage lake when he made a parachute drop after a balloon ascension at a county fair.
As Hazard went up the wind carried him out over the lake. The balloon was found a quarter of a mile from Houghton, but no tidings have been received of Hazard.
INSANE WOMAN TRIES TO STRANGLE BOY.
Scranton, Pa., Sept. 29.—Going suddenly insane, Mrs. Nettie Getz, aged twenty-two years, a laundress at the Home for the Friendless, crept into one of the children's wards and tried to strangle a little inmate known among the others as William Howard Taft. She was detected and dragged away from her intended victim by the superintendent, Mrs. A. K. Walker. Later she was removed to the insane department at the Hillside Home.

feet and in these holes placing dynamite cartridges with fuses attached. When all cartridges were set the fuses were ignited by a line of men provided with redhot irons. They passed rapidly down the field, the explosion occurring in a steady roar that was deafening and throwing clouds of soil and earth into the air to the height of thirty feet, the men being showered with it as it settled. This method of plowing was employed to break up a hard and resistant subsoil and did the job in fine shape.

For the Church Debt
By ALICE McDONALD
Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.
"You will never get Edith," said Dave Spaulding to his friend Luther Bennett, "and you may as well not try. You are rich and she is poor, but you're not the kind of a fellow she would fancy."
"You think so?"
"I know so."
"What will you give her for a wedding present if I do?"
"What will I give? It seems to me that's heads you win, tails I lose. What will you give if you don't?"
"I'll give a thousand dollars to any charity you name."
"In what time?"
"One year."
"Have you received any encouragement?"
"None whatever."
"Very well; I'll go you. How do you propose to win?"
"The basis of my operations will be money."
"She'll not marry for money."
"Not directly, but she may be induced to do so indirectly."
A few weeks later Bennett received a note from Miss Edith Cromwell stating that a fair was to be given to raise money for the church of which she was a member with a view to paying off the debt. She hoped he would attend and help the cause. Mr. Bennett replied that he would be on hand. When the evening for the sale arrived he sauntered up to Miss Cromwell's booth, expended $10 in various articles he had no use for and left them to be sold again. Miss Cromwell was disappointed. She had expected to get at least double the amount from one she knew to be her admirer and rich.
"Is there nothing else you see that you want?"
"Nothing else? I haven't yet bought anything I want."
"Is there nothing I can procure for you?"
"Yes; I would like a photograph of your pretty face, but that, of course, is not for sale."
Miss Cromwell made no reply for awhile. She was thinking she might get a pretty sum for the church by yielding in the matter. Finally she said:
"Of course my likeness is not for sale, but I might give it to the church, and the church could sell it."
"Certainly."
"How much would it bring?"
"A thousand dollars."
Miss Cromwell caught her breath. There were two reasons for her doing so—viz, she was flattered that one man should value her photograph so highly, and she would be delighted to hand in a thousand dollars to the church. She turned the matter over rapidly in her mind. What difference would Bennett's possession of her likeness make? A man might buy a photograph of a fashionable beauty for a few cents. Those of actresses were for sale everywhere. The debt was $1,295. The $205 would undoubtedly be raised at this fair. The $1,090 she would get for her photograph would complete the amount required.
"What would you propose to do with my photograph?" she asked.
"Wear it in the hunting case of my watch."
"Would any one except yourself see it?"
"One standing by when I looked for the time of day would be likely to see it."
Miss Cromwell thought again. "Will you do anything else with it?" she asked.
"No."
"I'll think it over. The fair lasts two evenings. Come tomorrow evening and I'll give you an answer."
Bennett went away, assuming a careless air, though he was much interested in the proposed deal. He was desperately in love with the girl and would have paid a dozen church debts to get her. The next evening (later he stopped at her booth. As soon as she saw him the color left her cheek. She was waiting on some one else at the time and as soon as she had finished opened a little box, took out a cabinet photograph and handed it to Bennett. He concealed a look of triumph as he drew forth a pocket check book, wrote a check for $1,000 and gave it to her. She folded it, placed it in the box from which she had taken the photograph and said:
"You can cut the head off if you like, and it will fit in your watch case."
"That's exactly what I propose to do," And he walked away, apparently as carelessly as if he had purchased a pin cushion.
The next day Luther Bennett while chatting with his friend Dave Spaulding took out his watch to look at the time, and Spaulding caught a glimpse of Miss Cromwell's head in the case.
"By Jove," exclaimed Spaulding.
"What's the matter?"
"You have won already."
"I don't claim to have won." And, pleading an engagement, Bennett hurried away.
Spaulding went at once to Miss Cromwell, told her that he had seen her head in Bennett's watch case and asked her if Bennett had a right to wear it there.
Miss Cromwell was stunned. She admitted that he had, but she wouldn't explain. Since she was unwilling to have it known that she had sold her likeness even for the church she never explained. She sent for Bennett, who came and convinced her that there was but one way out of the matter—to marry him.

Information of Priceless Value to Every Gettysburg Citizen.
How to act in an emergency is knowledge of inestimable worth, and this is particularly true of the diseases and ills of the human body. If you suffer with backache, urinary disorders, or any form of kidney trouble, the advice contained in the following statement will add a valuable asset to your store of knowledge. What could be more convincing proof of the efficiency of Doan's Kidney Pills, than the statement of Gettysburg citizens who have been permanently cured?
Mrs. Elizabeth Beiter, 1 Steinwehr Ave., Gettysburg, Pa., says: "I am just as willing to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills today as I was two years ago, when I publicly told of my experience with them. I was afflicted with kidney and bladder trouble and all my efforts for relief were unavailing. The kidney secretions passed irregularly and caused much distress. Pains often shot across my body and my health was all run down. Hearing so much about Doan's Kidney Pills, I was led to get a box at the People's Drug Store and give them a trial. They cured me and I have since enjoyed good health."

MODEL VILLAGE MOST HEALTHFUL

How French Companies Build Homes For Workmen.

GARDEN SPOTS DESCRIBED.

Roads, Houses and Parking Strips Are Described as Being Most Satisfactory to Tenants as Well as Men Who Had Them Built.

There is perhaps no other country
that can be called the land of homes
so justly as France, says Georges Benoit-Levy in the American City. It is estimated that there are 4,500,000 landowners in a population of 40,000,000.

"In recent years," says the writer,
"certain manufacturers have built garden villages." One of these he describes as follows:

"It was about four years ago that I was called in the capacity of social engineer to the mining company of Bourges. In the name of the Association des Cités-Jardins de France I strongly advised the company to build a model village, for which I had the pleasure of furnishing the first suggestions. The architect of the company was sent with me to see what had been done in England, and the work was undertaken.

"It is well to note here that a garden village, a garden city, differs from a manufacturing settlement not only in that its inhabitants have cheaper and more sanitary houses, but that their dwellings are also more beautiful, more artistically arranged and are charmingly scattered among flowers and greenery.

"It is an ensemble of elegant and harmonious curves, of streets planted

ENTRANCE TO THE MODEL VILLAGE OF BOURGES.

[From the American City, New York.]

with trees and bordered with turf, of cottages of various hues, which give an impression of freshness, of health and gaiety. In the arrangement of the village the points of compass have been taken into account, so that each cottage has as much sunlight as possible.

"Let us look at one of the village streets. Here is a road five meters wide with two sidewalks, each 3.5 meters in width, of which 1.5 meters are macadam and two meters turf. The boundary line between the sidewalk and the front garden is not marked by fences
or railings, but by borders of flowers.
The front gardens are about four meters in depth. This makes, therefore, an avenue about twenty meters wide between the houses, planted throughout its length with trees, acacias, plane trees and sycamores. From point to point at the crossroads the eye is charmed by groups of ash trees, evergreens or rosebushes. In the rear of each cottage is a garden covering about a tenth of an acre.

"The cost of the charming cottages varies from $840 to $900. The walls are built of country made bricks, joined by white cement. They are thirty-five centimeters thick. The corners are of artificial stone made of the same clay. We see that simply by joining the bricks with this white mortar and decorating them in different colors a varied effect is obtained with little expense and have an attractively decorated frieze of washable paint.

"Entering one of the cottages, we find below a paved cellar for wine and provisions, on the ground floor a porch, a vestibule, a living room (4.5 by 4.5 meters) and a bedroom for the boys. On the floor above is a bedroom for the parents (4.5 by 3.6 meters) as well as one for the daughters of the family (three meters square). Under the roof, so that not a bit of space is wasted, we find a garret for drying clothes.

"It is worth noting that every room
in the house is paved with tiles, so that the floors can be polished. All the walls have rounded corners in order that no dust may gather there.
"To secure constant light and ventilation the windows take up one-sixth of the surface of each room. They open outside so as to keep out the rain and to take up less room. There was one problem to solve—how to arrange the laundry, the coal shed, etc., without destroying the general harmonious look of the cottages. This has been accomplished by connecting the laundry (which serves also for a bathroom for the miner when he comes home)
and the coal shed, as well as the toilet, with a porch. This porch makes a sort of outdoor summer dining room.
"The sewage from the toilets is conducted into septic tanks, where it is chemically treated. There is one tank for each house."

There is more to be said in this section of the country than all other countries put together and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable.
For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment.
Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by J. C.
Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful,
acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

PICTURE SHOW SHAMES YOUTH

Lad Who Stole $500 Surrenders to Police.

THOUGHT OF HIS MOTHER

After Viewing Films in a Distant City
He Decides to Give Himself Up and Start Life Anew.

New York, Sept. 29.—Confessing to the theft of $500 in the Jefferson Market corner, Charles G. Mayer, seventeen years old, of Denver, Colo., told Magistrate Corrigan that a moving picture depicting a mother's suffering when her boy was taken for stealing money from the bank in which he was employed so touched and affected him
that he decided to give himself up, take his punishment and begin life
anew.

Mayer was charged with taking the $500 from the Hotel Victoria on Aug. 3 last. The money was the property of P. F. Brown, a patron of the hotel, and had been left at the hotel desk for safe keeping. The young man at the time was a clerk in the hotel. He disappeared at the time of the theft and had not been heard of again until he gave himself up. In pleading guilty
he said:

"I wanted to have a good time and took the money and went to Youngstown, O., and from there to Allegheny, Pa., and then to Pittsburgh. I went to moving picture shows and to theaters and was having a jolly good time until last Thursday, when I went to a moving picture show in Pittsburgh and saw a film that made me feel my shame.

"It was a picture story of how a young bank clerk who had stolen some money from the bank had been brought to his senses while enjoying his spoils by hearing of his mother's illness. The film showed the young bank clerk in a theater, where he had just seen an act of one of those 'old home' plays that set him to thinking of home and mother.

"I thought of my home and dear mother out in Denver and then of what I had done. I pictured her at home, proud of her young son in New York, and, perhaps, wondering why she did not hear from me. I had not written home since I stole the money, and tears came to my eyes and I wanted to make amends.

"I left the picture place and went to the first policeman I met in the streets of Pittsburgh and told him what I had done and asked him to lock me up and send me back to New York. And here I am, sorry for what I have done and willing and ready to take my punishment. I have learned a lesson. All I hope is that my poor mother will never know what I have done."

SAVED BY HIS MOTHER

Man Released From Jail as Result of Parent's Devotion.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Sept. 29.—As a result of his mother's devotion, H. G.
Duffy, of Brooklyn, was released from jail, where he faced a long term of imprisonment.

Duffy was arrested on Sept. 3, on the charge of assaulting and robbing a man here and was jailed. He sent word to his mother, and she hurried on here from Brooklyn. By her efforts
she got a speedy hearing and the robbery charge was dismissed, but he was held for assault.

SULU SULTAN SEES OLD FRIEND IN TAFT

Talks Over Old Times as He Greets President.

Washington, Sept. 29.—The sultan
of Sulu met his old friend "Governor"
Taft in the green room of the White House and he completely exhausted
his English vocabulary in greeting him.

"How d'y do. Glad to meet you," exclaimed the sultan, as he made his most profound bow to the president.

It was the president's busy day and it was several minutes after the sultan's party arrived before he could greet them. Meanwhile the sultan was shown the pictures of ex-presidents, which adorn the walls of the green room.

He evinced great interest in the painting of Abraham Lincoln, who, it was explained to him, had set the slaves free. The sultan was formerly a slave owner, but he was compelled to give up his slaves when the United States occupied Jolo.

The president stepped forward and grasped the monarch warmly by the hand.

For several minutes they talked over old times, through an interpreter, of course. The sultan has high admiration for the president, having met him several times while Mr. Taft was governor of the Philippines.

After leaving the White House the sultan paid his respects to Major General Wood, chief of staff of the army.

MRS. HENRY WHITE ILL

Paris, Sept. 29.—Mrs. Henry White, wife of the former American ambassador to France, was operated upon for appendicitis. She passed through the

Mrs. White had planned to sail for the United States Wednesday, but was seized suddenly with an acute attack
which made prompt surgical relief imperative.

Mrs. White is said to be doing well.
Her sister-in-law, Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, and her daughter, the Countess Schorr-Thoss, are with her.

Sacramento, Cal., Sept. 29.—Govern-amendment to be submitted to the voters at the coming election. The measure provides for the division of county taxes. If adopted in its present form it would, it is said, be invalid.

of Houston—now and future. Down at the bottom it all ends, "A City of

STIMSON NAMED FOR GOVERNOR

Roosevelt's Candidate Wins at Saratoga.

FULL TICKET NOMINATED

Gubernatorial Candidate Is Lawyer
Who Whipped Sugar Trust—Platform Indorses Taft and Direct Primaries.

Saratoga, N. Y., Sept. 29.—The Republican state convention at its final session here nominated the following ticket:

For governor—Henry L. Stimson, of
New York.

For lieutenant governor—Edward Schoenbeck, of Syracuse.

For secretary of state—Samuel S.
Koenig, of New York.

For comptroller—James Thompson,
of Valley Falls, Rensselaer county.

For state treasurer—Thomas Fennell, of Elmira.

For attorney general—Edward R.
O'Malley, of Buffalo.

For state engineer and surveyor—
Frank M. Williams, of Oneida.

For associate judge of the court of appeals—Irving G. Vann, of Syracuse.

There were no more skyrockets, no more fuss and feathers, but all hands got down to business. The roll call for governor brought forth Kingsbury Foster, of New York county, who nominated William S. Bennett. Mr. Foster extolled Representative Bennett telling how he had been instrumental at Albany in pushing the employers' liability law, and Mr. Foster added that Representative Bennett's energy and industry in promoting the work of the Federation of Labor and his loyalty to organized labor and his great popularity among Jew and Gentile had made him the "Sir Galahad"
of the people.

Roosevelt Names Stimson.

"I have a genuine regard and respect," said Colonel Roosevelt, "for Representative Bennett, but the situation calls for another man at this time.
I rise to nominate Henry L. Stimson, of New York; he is the very man. As president of the United States, I appointed him United States district attorney of New York. It was necessary to have an honest man in that place, a man of transcendent integrity.
I conferred with Mr. Root at the time and we decided that Mr. Stimson was the man who must act against the most powerful combinations of business interests in the world. I believed that Mr. Stimson as United States district attorney would be called upon to meet the very ablest lawyers the corporations could employ. Mr. Stimson made good. He was pitted against the best lawyers of the land. It was his business to bring to book the sugar trust, which had defrauded the government out of enormous sums, literally a vast fortune. Mr. Stimson convicted man after man in the sugar trust. He proved his case so true that the trust threw up its hands and restored an enormous sum to the government. Mr. Stimson is a man of trenchant ability, and I have the very greatest pleasure in nominating him for the high honor of governor of the state of New York."

The total vote for those named for governor was as follows: Stimson,
648; Bennett, 242; Dun, 38, and Mc-Ewen, 35.

Immediately after Permanent Chairman Root announced the result of the ballot, Mr. Foster moved to make Mr.
Stimson's nomination unanimous.
Speaker Wadsworth, head of the livingstone county delegation, did live wound. So did William Barnes, Jr.,
head of the Albany county delegation.
Then followed the nomination of the rest of the ticket by acclamation.

Strong Points of Platform.

The following are the strongest points in the platform:

To Governor Hughes is due the credit of arousing the interest of the people and convincing them of the need of directly electing their party officers and directly nominating their party candidates. We promise legislation which will enact these principles into law.

We believe that the same safeguards should surround primary elections as have been shown to be effective in preventing repeating and frauds at general elections. We therefore favor extending the signature law as now applied to general elections to primary elections.

The crook and grafter and unfaithful man in public service shall be put out and kept out.

We enthusiastically indorse the progressive and statesmanlike leadership of William Howard Taft. Each succeeding month has confirmed the nation in its high estimate of his great ness.

The Payne tariff law reduced the average rate of all duties 11 per cent.

We consider it fortunate that the president has secured as a member of the highest tribunal a man with the great intellectual power and the splendid legal attainments of Charles E.
Hughes.

Governor Hughes has appealed to the conscience and intelligence of the people and championed legislation demanded by the moral sense of the community.

End Better Flavors.

Bad flavors in butter are often caused by the feeding. The wild onion or garlic in the pastures will do it, as everybody knows, and so will musty fodder, spoiled ensilage and other similarly damaged foods. Turnips, potatoes and roots, if fed before or during milking, will be apt to produce bad flavor. The danger from this kind of food can only be obviated by feeding after milking.

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN

Stetson's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is the mammoth double production of Uncle Tom's Cabin which will appear on Monday, October 3, at the Walter Theatre. The rendition of Uncle Tom by this well-known and well-liked company will never grow old. This management evidently believes in the maxim, "What is worth doing is worth doing well." There runs through this grand story a pathos particularly touching and sweet. It speaks the universal story of the heart. It reflects like a mirror of the innermost phases of the human emotions. It is more than a play—it is a moral classic. It argues for two of the greatest themes that can engage the mind—human liberty and immortality of the soul. Notwithstanding the frequent production of this play, it is never produced in the sumptuous manner by other companies as it is in Stetson's. It is like meeting an old friend after a year's absence. In this theatrical offering Manager Washburn has brought together all the requisites that go to make up a really great production and one it will be real loss to miss.

A FINE BAND

John W. Vogel's big city minstrels boast of a silver cornet band of twenty-one pieces and a double symphony orchestra of fifteen, both under the able direction of the popular director, Prof. James L. Finning, and the Louisiana Glee Club, under the direction of Mr. Harry Leighton, who has the reputation of being the foremost vocal director in the minstrel business, will supply the vocal numbers. John W. Vogel's big city minstrels will appear at the Walter's Theatre on Thursday, October 6, and should be witnessed by a crowded house.

BLACK BEAUTY

There have been so many cases of late where American girls, especially heiresses, have chosen foreign noblemen and men with titles for husbands that it is a pleasure to see a girl, who is sensible enough to prefer just a plain man. The heroine of "Black Beauty" the stage version of Anna Sewall's book, is such a girl. She is besieged with marital offers from two men in strongest contrast, one with a title and plenty of wealth, the other a mere man and poor. The latter, however, is filled with a strong love for his horse, Black Beauty, and his simple kindness and gentleness to the animal completely wins the girl's admiration. So she renounces the titled wooer, and accepts the man, who has neither name nor wealth, but a heart. The love element was supplied by Neil Twomey, who dramatized Anna Sewall's book, and he is said to have written a charming play. "Black Beauty" will be seen at Walter's Theatre this evening.

SELECTING SEED CORN.

Better Run Risk of Frost Than Pick the Ears Too Early.

The first step toward better seed corn for next year must be taken in the fall by selecting the seed ears from the stalks in the field. The corn should be allowed to mature well on the stalk. By selecting the earliest maturing ears and picking them from the stalk as soon as the husks begin to turn yellow, which is a common practice, earliness is secured at the expense of vitality, writes Professor Moore of the University of Wisconsin in the American Agriculturist.

A slight frost will not injure corn if it is well matured, and it is better to run the risk of a frost than to pick the ears too early. The latter part of the growing season seems to improve the vitality of the corn greatly.

Care should be taken in picking seed to secure ears which are attached to the stalk about three feet above the ground. Those ears which grow either very high or very low upon the stalk should be rejected, as they are undesirable, having characteristics which we do not desire. For the same reason we should avoid selecting ears with very short or long shanks or from deformed stalks.

Go into the field after the husks on the ears have turned yellow and select the well formed ears from good stalks. Put them in sacks or baskets and bring them to the side of the field and husk. It is well to follow definite rows in securing seed corn, otherwise a large number of good ears are missed. After the corn is husked many ears will be found imperfect and should be discarded. Only those ears should be retained for curing for seed that are of good form. Seed corn should be put into the proper place for curing the same day that it is taken from the field.

Foundation of the Cow.

With the first calf the heifer should be stimulated by regularity in feeding and milking to keep up a good flow of milk and to maintain this flow pretty close up to the next calving. The object is to fix in her continuity of milk. Never let her get fat, though. The keynote to success is the cow, and the foundation of the cow is feed and breed.

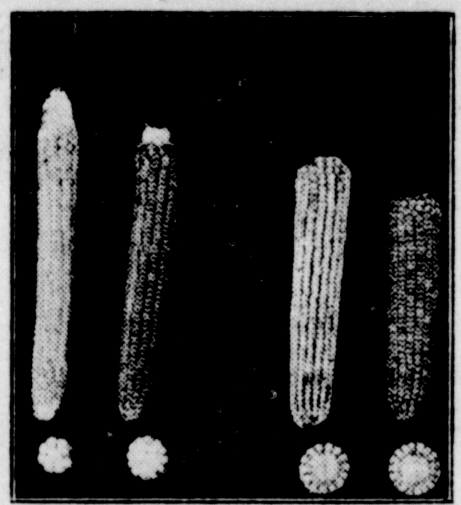

I am now paying 8 cents for good calves. Drop me a card, A. R. Lischy, York Springs, Pa.

FOR FORAGE OR ENSILAGE.

Canadian Experience With Corn Also Applicable to the United States.

Corn for forage or ensilage can be grown to advantage in almost all parts of Canada at present occupied by farmers or stockmen. Crops have not been satisfactory in every case where efforts have been made to grow it, but this has very often been due to wrong cultural methods practiced or unsuitable varieties grown rather than to adverse climatic peculiarities, according to a bulletin issued by the Canadian department of agriculture. The reasons for growing or making an attempt to grow this forage crop wherever live stock are kept in any numbers are numerous and cogent. A few of them follow:

VARIETIES OF CORN SUITABLE FOR ENSILAGE

[From bulletin, department of agriculture, Canada.]

As a plant capable of yielding a large amount of valuable forage under a great variety of soil and climatic conditions corn is without an equal.

When properly preserved, whether as ensilage or dried, it can be used as material to render other less palatable roughage more acceptable to farm animals.

When properly grown and well preserved as ensilage it is the equal of or superior to roots in feeding value and palatability. It can, however, generally speaking, be more cheaply grown and more easily preserved than roots.

The labor of growing an acre of corn is of a character much more agreeable to perform and much less arduous than that of growing an acre of roots of any description.

Corn, being a cultivated or hoed crop, serves well to clean the land—that is, free it from weeds, so fitting it for grain growing and putting it into shape to seed down to grass or hay.

Corn is a gross feeder and may be depended upon to make good use of a never so abundant supply of plant food. It is for this reason particularly well adapted to occupy that place in the rotation where humifying vegetable matter and a fairly liberal supply of barnyard manure unite to supply large quantities of plant food suitable for root, leaf and stem growth rather than for seed production.

The growing of corn on a fair proportion of the arable land on the farm will permit of keeping more cattle and so increase the revenue as well as augment the manure supply so essential to the maintenance of soil fertility.

Corn when preserved as ensilage can be stored much more cheaply in much less space than any other roughage. In addition, stored in this way it will keep indefinitely and is always ready to feed.

Drain off the stagnant water and fill in the filthy places to avoid disease.

Wealthy Farmers of United States. The United States farmer is, collectively, the most wealthy capitalist the world has ever known. By the 1900 census the farmers had invested in agriculture in the United States $20,000,000,000, which last year produced $7,000,000,000. Such a yearly income means $580,000,000 a month or $19,000,000 a day.

Live Stock Notes.

Horses that are used exclusively on the farm and do no road work should go unshod.

A fattening animal should never have more food placed before it than it will eat up eagerly.

If you keep your hogs in a pen all the time don't expect to make any world astonishing profits. The hog is a natural grazer.

If dusty hay is fed sprinkle with water and it will save the horse much annoyance. Better still, don't feed it at all if you can help it.

If corn is scarce sheep will beat hogs on pasture, provided they get plenty of corn, but when the hogs get plenty of corn they will range pretty well with sheep.

Experiments show that many tons of valuable hog go with the peanut crop and that after the peanuts have been gathered hogs can be turned in on the ground and fattened for market on what is left of the crop without other food.

How fond hogs are of milo maize is demonstrated by the fact that if a drove of hogs is turned on a field planted in Indian corn, Kaffir corn and milo they will devour the entire milo crop before touching either of the other grains.

It Ended Well

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1910, by Associated Literary Press.

One summer's day the lightning rod man came driving along on the Red Bridge road to halt at the comfortable farmhouse of the Widow Glendenning and say to her that as business in his line was a little slack owing to the scarcity of thunder and lightning he would make her a special rate if she wanted her barn protected. The widow was a pleasant faced, good natured woman, and she pleasantly replied that when she felt her barn needed protection she would hoist a clothes pole to the roof.

All in a good natured way, you know, and no one's feelings were hurt. The lightning rod man laughed and drove on. Ten miles away he stopped at the house of Deacon Shaw, widower. He offered the deacon a very low figure on rods, and the deacon intimated that the whole business of stopping thunderbolts was a swindle and a fraud. Nothing personal and nothing to hurt. Just a sort of a joke, you know—a joke to be returned. Two weeks later the lightning man was back at the widow's house. He had nothing to say about rods this time. What he did say was:

"Widow, I'm a man with a heart. I not only have a heart for myself, but for others. I have a heart for you. You are a lonesome, delicate woman. All widows are. Where there's no man around the house there's desolation. I can't marry you, but I can find you a second husband and warrant him true blue."

"Then bring him on," replied the widow, with a laugh.

"He's a deacon and a widower. He has one child. He's worth $6,000 or $7,000. There is only one drawback, and that I don't call a drawback at all. It's an advantage. He's deaf and dumb. No dumb husband can scold and find fault. He can't swear at his oxen. He can't yell at his wife from upstairs or down cellar."

"How did a dumb man ever get married?" asked the widow, with a show of interest.

"By sign. I can't tell you the signs, but that must have been the way. That's the way he talks to me."

"But I don't want no deaf and dumb critter around me."

"But let him come along and call."

"Oh, I can't keep him away, but how am I going to talk to him?"

"Same as he will to you—by signs."

"I'm not going to make any wind-mill of myself, and he needn't come. I do some scolding myself now and then, and if I had a husband I wouldn't want to be swinging my arms around to let him know that I was mad. You go and marry him to some old maid."

That same day the lightning rod man drove up to the deacon's again. The deacon was ready for him, but he didn't mention rods. Instead he said:

"Deacon, you are a suffering and lonesome man. All widowers are. The world would look different to you if you were married again. I am a man with a heart, and I'm going to tell you of a widow who weeps for you—that is, she waits for you, which is about the same thing. She's fairly handsome, not over forty and has as good a farm as yours. And to crown it all, deacon, she's deaf and dumb."

"Who'd want to marry a deaf and dumb woman?" demanded the deacon. "Best wives in the world—best natured, hardest working and the most economical. Don't make no mistake, deacon. Marrying this woman means another good farm for you. Only one child and that a girl big enough to help do the housework. Make a call at the house anyway."

Three days later he decided to call. He had been told that if he ever did call he must talk to the widow in the sign language or her feelings would be hurt.

"Now, then, who in the lands is that?" asked the widow of herself.

Two minutes later there was a rap on the front door. As she opened it the man stood there with an anxious look on his face and pointed into the room. He wanted to enter. She nodded. He must be the deaf and dumb widower. She took a chair and he took one. Then they looked at each other. She smiled and he smiled.

They were doing famously well, and it was with a bland smile on his phiz that the deacon asked her in the sign language how her corn and potatoes were coming on. The sign was too much for her. She thought he asked if she ever had carache, and she shook her head. The deacon tried again. This time she thought he was asking if she had any children, and she nodded her head and held up one finger.

"What in Josh does the woman mean?" exclaimed the caller to himself, without knowing that he was going to speak.

"Sir, who are you, to come here and make a fool of me!" shouted the woman as she sprang up with angry eyes.

"And you've made a fool of me," was the reply.

It was some little time before matters were made clear and the blame placed where it belonged. Then they begged each other's pardon and fell into sensible conversation. Yes, it resulted in matrimony after a year or so, and when the lightning rod man heard of it he heaved a long sigh and said to himself:

"Yes, I'm a man with a heart for others, but I'm no humorist. My jokes turn out the other way."
